village VOICE

best hash - SARGE'S

No, not that kind of hash! Corned beef hash, and not from a can, either. At SARGE'S, a 40-year-old establishment founded by a beat cop, the hash is made from scratch with tiny nubs of potato and slivers of house-cured corned beef. Fried until crisp, the hash is best surmounted by the optional trio of poached eggs. You won't find a better brunch. -Robert Sietsema

NEW YORK best of new york

SARGE'S (548 Third Avenue, near 36th Street; 679-0442) is underrated, especially its outsize bowls of chicken soup with huge kreplach. Surprisingly good burgers too. The real draw of Sarge's though, is that it's open 24/7 - and delivers. "They were there for me when I was writing my book," says Arthur Schwartz fondly. "I gained a lot of weight."

NEW YORK

TOP FIVE Latkes

Of course, you can find them at Zabar's and the 2nd Avenue Deli. But miraculous-tasting versions of Hanukkah's traditional potato pancakes appear all over town. Atkins devotees; avert your eyes. By Rebecca Marx.

#1. Sarge's Deli

A latke-lover's Xanadu. Dense, huge, cut with bits of carrot and onion, and fried in enough oil to last eight days, they're less potato pancake than gastronomic landmark. Three make a very substantial meal.

NEW YORK CITY

Sarge's Deli

A true NY Jewish deli... this 24/7 Murray Hill "time warp" is the place for "obscenely huge sandwiches" and other classics "served up efficiently."

"where else can you go at 3 AM?"

Cuisine: Jewish deli

Price: Cheap

Delivering: 24 hours a day

Delivery area: Anywhere in Manhattan; $4 charge for orders above 60th Street or below 14th Street

About the food: Not kosher, but Sarge's makes the best corned-beef sandwich north of the 2nd Avenue Deli. During a recent bout with the flu, we became extremely dependent on the "souper soup," an immense bowl of chicken broth with the works: noodles, a huge matzo ball, and an even larger kreplach. Not only is Sarge's open 24 hours, it always offers the full menu. Ideal if you want boiled beef flanken at 4 A.M.

Sarge's Deli

24-Hour Manhattan Delivery

Come home late and need a pastrami fix? Some really good, fatty, spicy pastrami on rye? Or a crisp skinned roast chicken (okay, a little steamy inside) with mashed potatoes - wonderful, gloppy brown gravy on the side? A tuna sandwich or salad platter? A sandwich high with whitefish salad? Bagels and lox (ask for extra onion)? I know - sometimes everyone, in the middle of the night, needs a piece of double -chocolate sin cake, or whatever they call it.
